

COVID-19: We are at your service

Dear Customers, Dear Candidates,

The Nash Technologies Group is at your service: more than ever before during the crisis. Thanks to our flexible IT infrastructure, we were able to provide our services seamlessly from our home office starting at the very first day of the German government's social distancing measures. Home office has always been one of our options to work. Therefore, it was only a small step to make this option our daily mainstream.

Since February of this year, we have closely followed the events surrounding COVID-19 and have constantly evaluated possible influences on our business activities, as well as assessing opportunities and risks. The central concern was and is always to pay attention to the health of our employees and our partners. The same applies to our candidates.

We are here to support you. Please do not hesitate to contact us if you have any questions about our services, open positions, and our crisis management.

With best wishes for your health - both personally and for your company,

Georg Pielage, CEO Nash Technologies Group